Course Description: The mass media are an integral part of our lives in that we use this institution as a major source of information. The media can take us to places and people that we may not personally be able to go, meet and experience. Thus, we have formed opinions and chosen our behaviors based on the information we get from the media.

Stereotypes are generalizations attributed to groups of people usually based on race, sex, sexual orientation, physical ability, age, religion and nationality. The media can and have developed, reinforced and validated the stereotypes we have about the different groups in our society.

The purpose of this course is to identify the ways in which the media have presented stereotypes and how these stereotypes have influenced the way we think, behave and react to certain groups in our society. The course will explore stereotypes presented in news, advertising, entertainment and social media and develop strategies for the media to represent our pluralistic society more effectively and accurately.

Course Goals and Learning Objectives

Course Goal 1: Care about the way the media represents the realities of society

- Critique media content overall
- Articulate why it is important to know the role the media plays in stereotyping
- Explain how we use the media to form opinions and attitudes about individuals we do not personally know.
- Recognize our own personal biases
Spring Semester 2016

Course Goal 2: Understand the characteristics of stereotypes

- Define the term stereotype
- Identify language that perpetuates stereotypes
- Recognize the stereotypes the media assigns to individuals from certain groups

Course Goal 3: Understand the purpose of media stereotypes

- Describe how individuals' personal biases perpetuate stereotypes
- Explain how media routines and structures affect their presentation of content overall
- Explain how social and political forces have intersected with the media to form and perpetuate stereotypes
- Explain how stereotyping is a natural way of processing phenomena

Course Goal 4: Understand the impact media stereotypes have on individuals and society.

- Explain how media stereotypes psychologically affect the members of stereotyped groups
- Explain how media stereotypes affect the attitudes and behaviors toward members of stereotyped groups
- Explain how media stereotypes have influenced policies affecting members of stereotyped groups

Course Goal 5: Appreciate the ability to change the way the media portrays their subjects

- Identify and construct strategies for the media to minimize its use of stereotypes that cause harm
- Identify and construct ways for the media to more adequately show the range of realities of their subjects
- Recognize our own abilities and power to challenge and change media portrayals
- Commit to doing our part to ensure that the media becomes a vehicle for empowering rather than marginalizing the public(s) who consume it

Textbooks

Readings will be posted on Carmen. Sometimes the professor will post relevant links. She will inform you of new postings and readings in a timely manner.

Class Requirements

Participation (5%). It is the desire of the professor for this class to be as interactive as possible. Attendance, as well as your contributions to class and online discussions, will be factors in determining your participation grade. The online discussions can be based on issues raised in class, as well as your reactions to examples of media portrayals.
Spring Semester 2016

Expectations and reflections (5%). At the beginning of the semester, you will be asked to indicate your expectations for the class and at the end of the semester, you will be asked to reflect on what you have learned from the class largely based on course goals and learning objectives. Details will be provided on a separate handout. Expectations paper deadline is from Jan. 11-22. Reflections paper deadline is May 2.

Stereotype example (5%). This is a one-page paper, double-spaced (12-point font, Times New Roman) that describes an example of a stereotype in the media. This can come from any media form including news, entertainment, social media, books, advertisements, public relations campaign. Details will be provided on a separate handout. This example might become the basis of an online and/or class discussion, as well as the basis for your final paper. Deadlines are staggered.

Examinations (60%). There will be three examinations worth 20% each given at designated times in the semester with the last one given during finals week. The final examination will not be cumulative and will be based on the material covered since the second examination. The examinations will consist of multiple choice and true-false questions based on reading assignments, lectures, class activities, online and class discussions and audiovisual presentations. Midterm 1 is Feb.11; midterm 2 is March 10; final is May 2.

Final paper (24%). The focus of this five-page paper is to offer strategies for minimizing stereotypes when designing messages. Details will be provided on a separate handout. Paper is due April 22.

Final paper proposal (1%). Topics for the final paper must be approved by the TA or the professor. A form will be provided. No final papers will be accepted without approval. If your topic has been approved and you decide to change it, you must notify the professor in advance so that the professor can re-approve it. Proposal is due Feb. 12.

EXTRA CREDIT

There will be opportunities for you to complete work for extra credit. You may earn up to six points of extra credit that will be added to your examination scores. The extra credit can come from C-REP participation and/or from events/activities the professor or TA will announce in advance. For non-C-REP activities, the professor or TA will provide the requirements for earning the points.

Out-of Class Communication

The professor welcomes and encourages one-on-one communication with the students. In addition to office hours, students are encouraged to communicate using email. Email and Carmen will also be used for class announcements. Carmen will be used to supplement class information and activities. In the case of inclement weather, the professor will email you concerning class cancellations.
Safe & Healthy

Keeping students healthy and preventing the spread of illness is important to The Ohio State University. Students are encouraged to stay home if they are sick and may be asked to leave class if they are coughing/sneezing. Students who are sick and cannot attend class must contact Dr. Ross BEFORE class to receive any materials and turn in assignments via the drop box or email. If your illness is too severe to make contact BEFORE class, then notify Dr. Ross within a reasonable time period (seven days) and provide appropriate documentation. If you do not notify Dr. Ross in a timely manner, your assignment will not be accepted.

Academic Misconduct:

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-31-02). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct (http://studentaffairs.osu.edu/resource_csc.asp)

Late Assignments

NO ASSIGNMENTS WILL BE ACCEPTED LATE. THIS MEANS A GRADE OF A ZERO FOR THE MISSED ASSIGNMENT.

Grading scale will follow the Carmen default: 93 or higher, A; 90-92, A-; 87-89, B+; 83-86, B; 80-82, B-; 77-79, C+; 73-76, C; 70-72, C-; 67-69, D+; 60-66, D; below 60, E.
